

Why Man Needs God in Russian by Vasili Trubchik

This book is intended for evangelism in former Soviet Union countries where an atheistic heritage means people think, if they are living well without Him, they do not need God.

Vasili says that a person without God has not the real meaning of life, love, truth, future. All this they can find in God and with God! His book also shows that without God, there is no justice or forgiveness, while showing that true meaning is in God, that He is love, and that He offers forgiveness and eternal life.

Vasili serves the Lord in Belarus. George Repetski has served with him, and says, it is obvious that the author lives in the Eastern Slavic world. He quotes Russian literary and philosophical thinkers, and gives examples from life in his part of the world, which will be well understood by the readers that have grown up in Eastern Slavic culture. George adds, the book is thoroughly Biblical, showing how God's Word answers the needs of each person. I highly endorse it. I believe Vasili's book will be used by God to reach and touch Russian speaking people in former Soviet Union lands.

Your Book Club donation in July will help with 5000 copies of Why Man Needs God in Russian.

LATM helped Vasili publish his Bible Puzzles for Children (right).

It was popular in Belarus, of course, but it has a magnetic attraction to children, in spite of the language barrier, wherever we display it in our stateside travels.
